Quantum Forest

Concept Deck

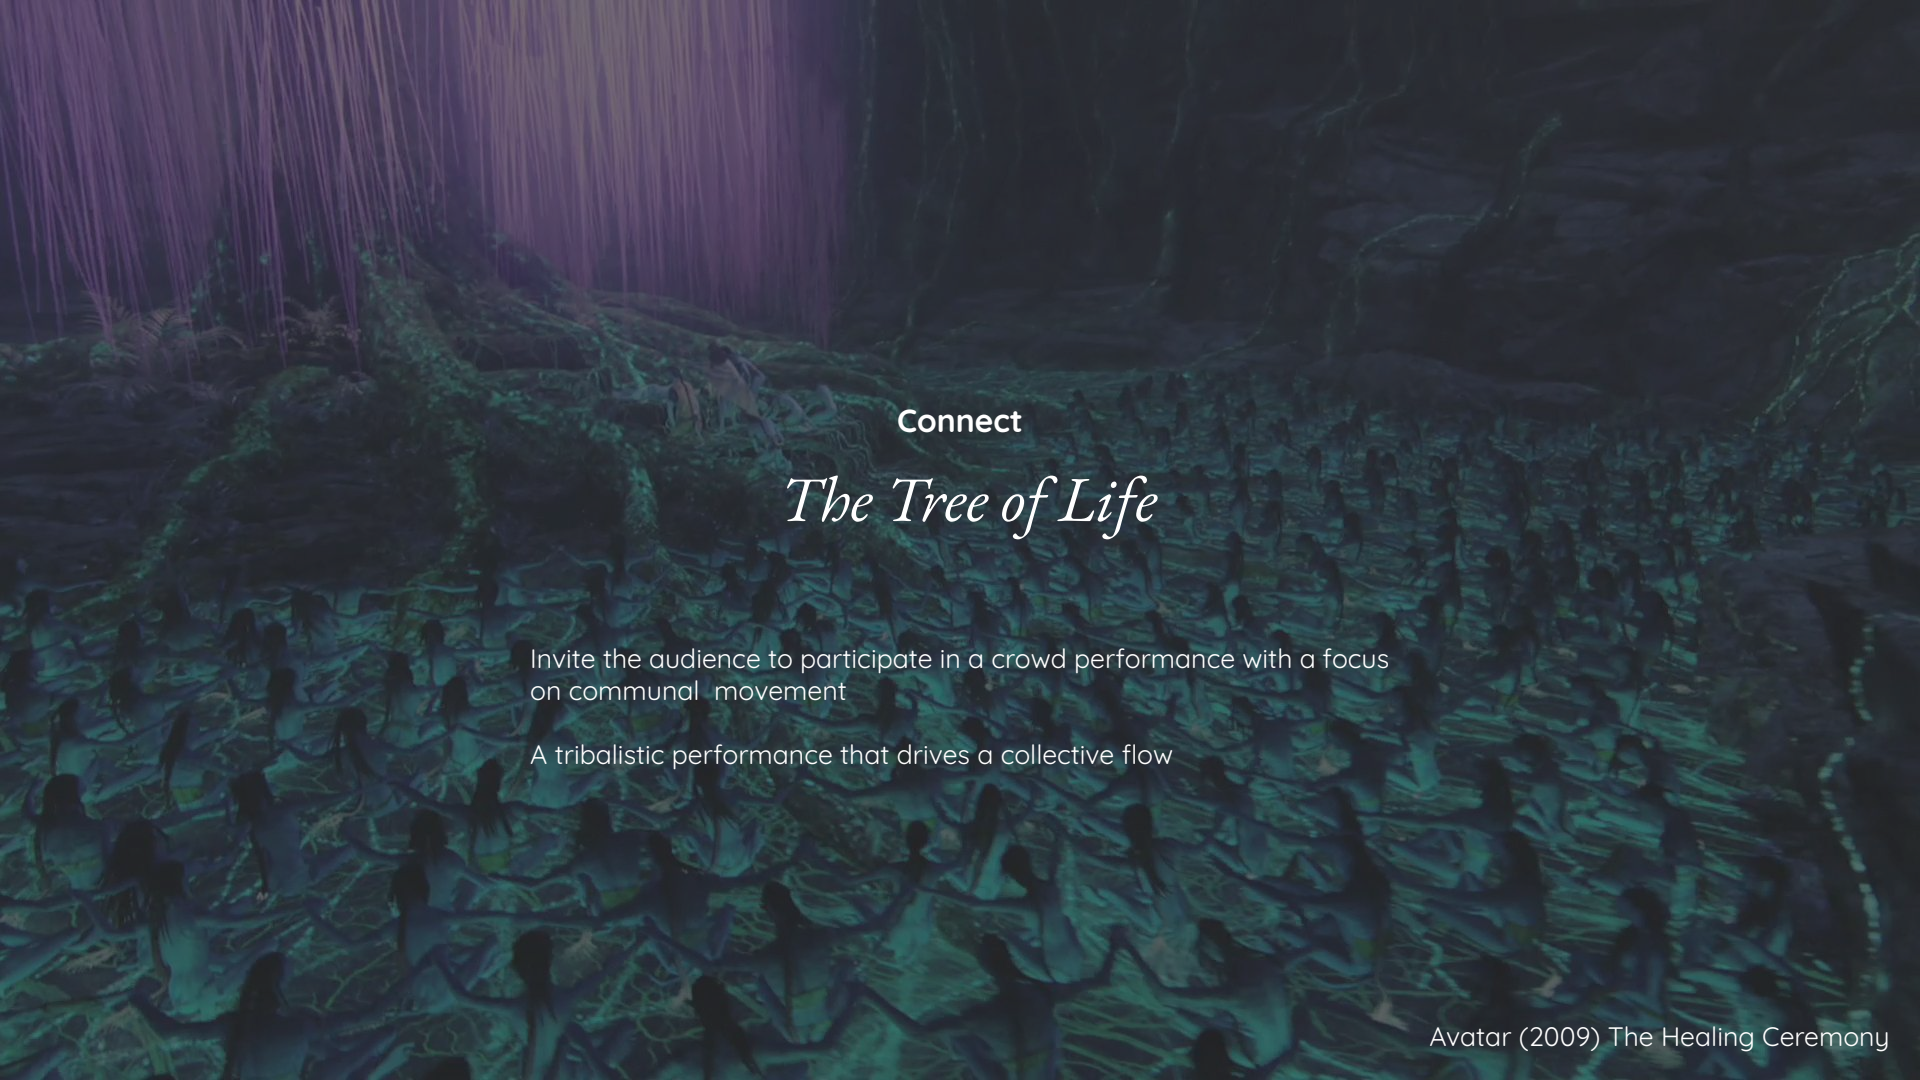

SECRETMAP

multiple therapeutic pieces culminate in this biological + technological installation, to calm participants, bringing in balance, and feelings of inner peace

Connect with others and the environment

Contemplate and engage with the moment

Let Nature reset you

Connect

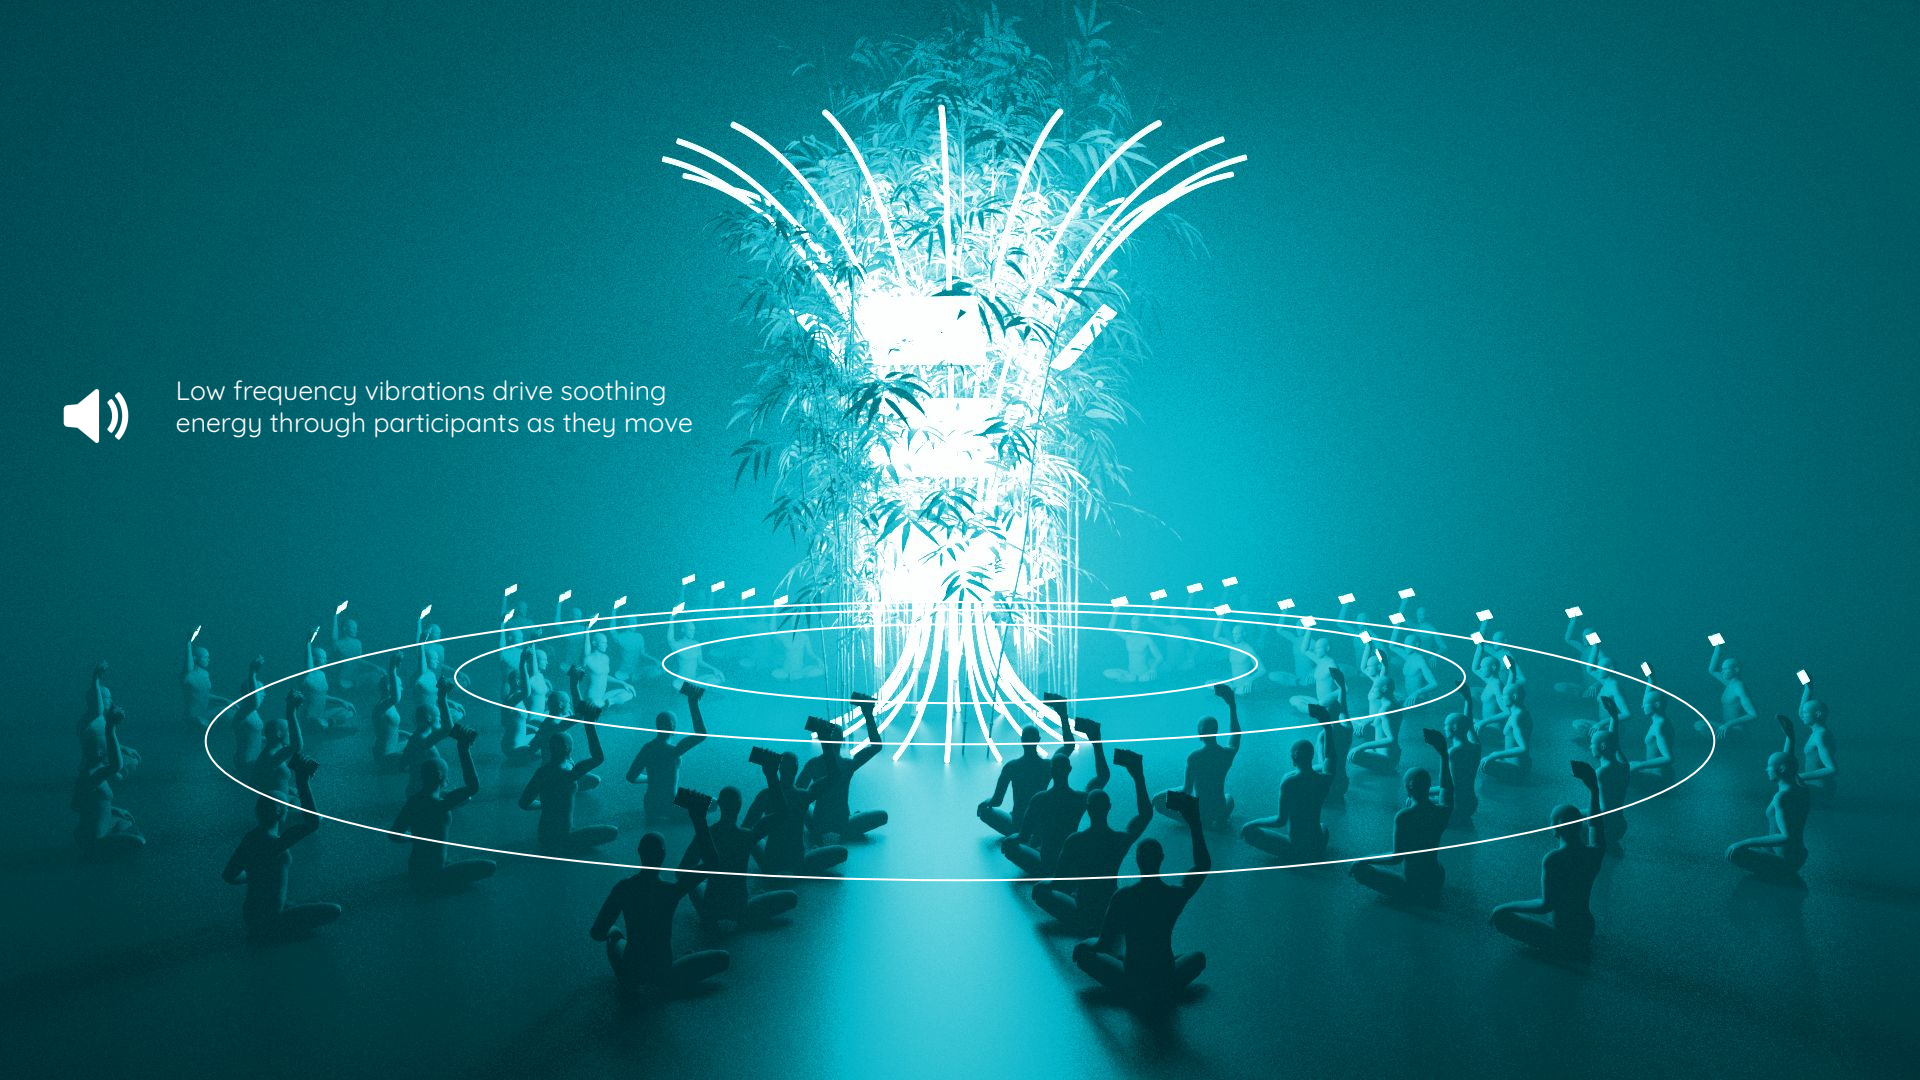

The Tree of Life

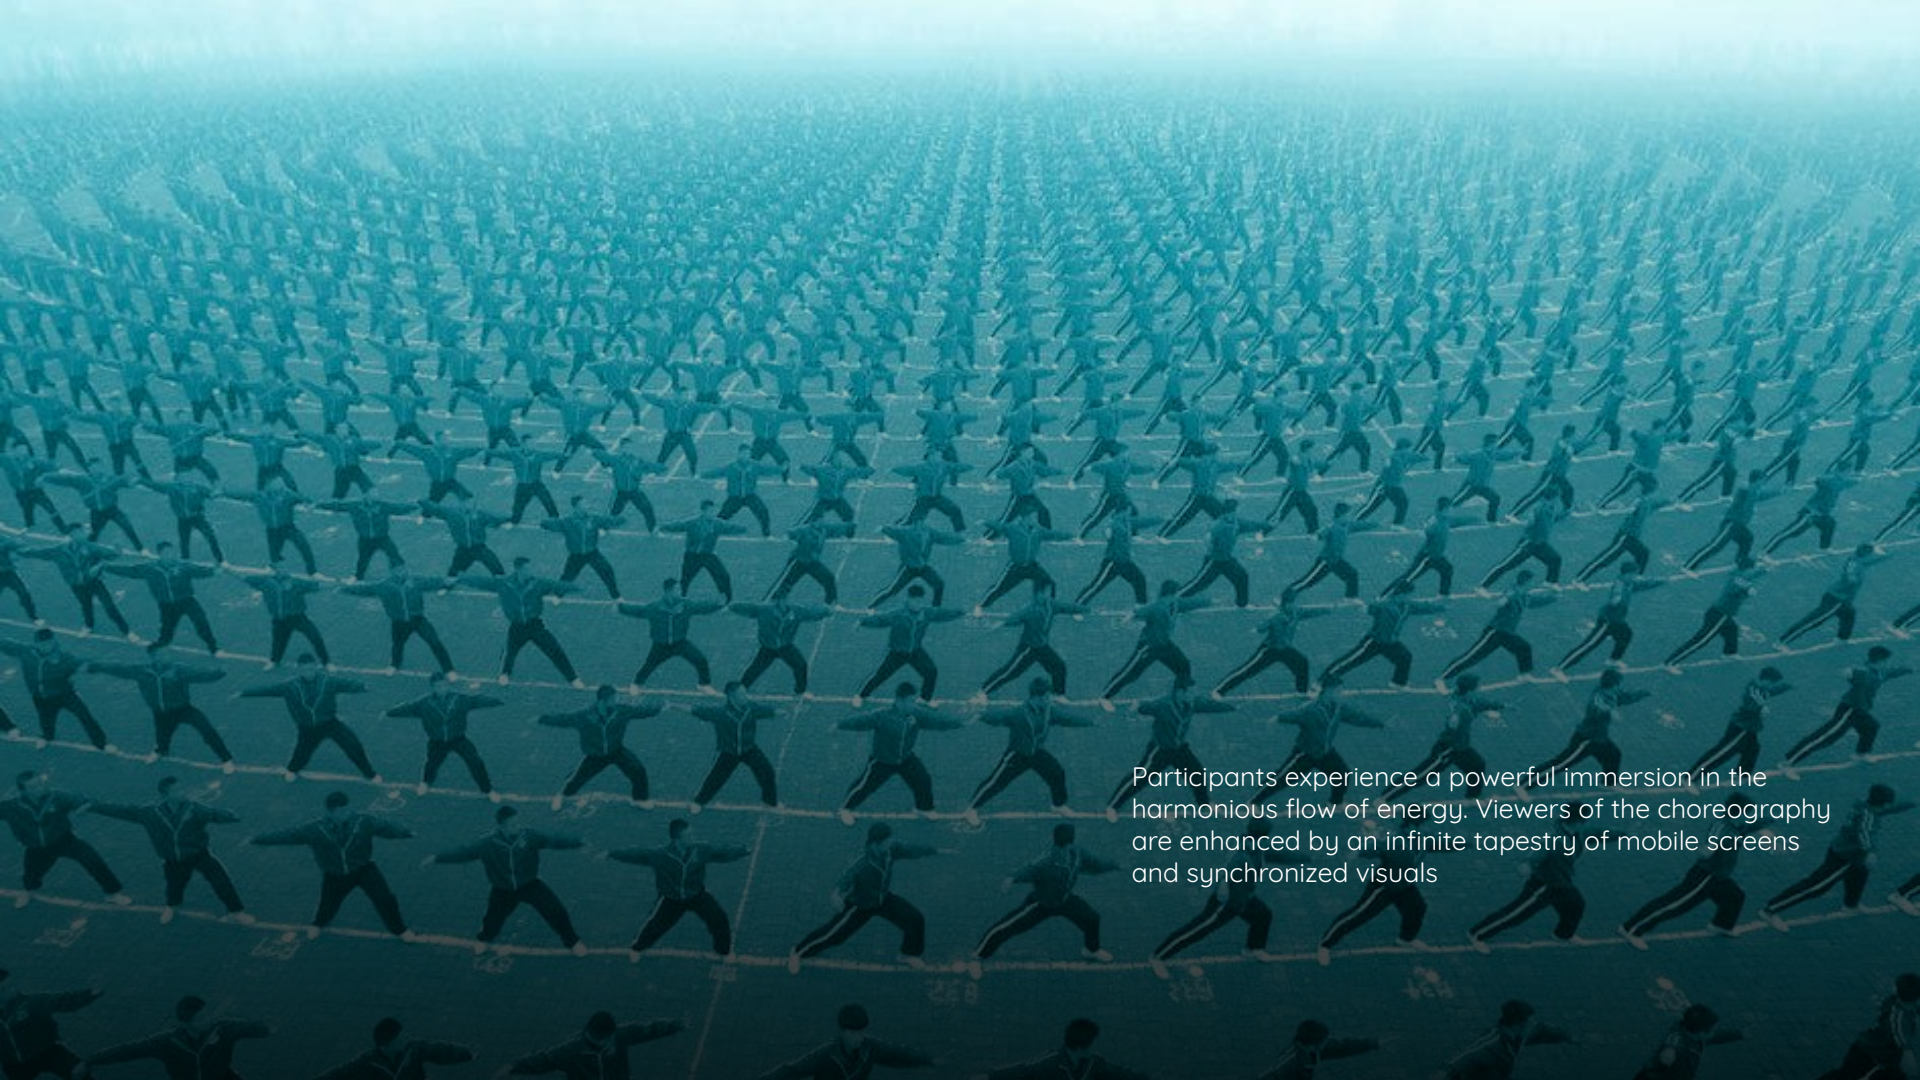

Invite the audience to participate in a crowd performance with a focus on communal movement

A tribalistic performance that drives a collective flow

Avatar (2009) The Healing Ceremony

The audience connects to a web page on their phone.
It simply displays abstract visuals but also captures the motion data of the phone.
Following the motions on the screens, the audience executes simple yoga moves.
Their phone registers when the moves are correct
The more that people execute the moves, the more the central Tree glows
The more the tree lights up, the more it attracts people. The experience then serves as a beacon for friends to meet if they get lost.

Low frequency vibrations drive soothing energy through participants as they move

Participants experience a powerful immersion in the harmonious flow of energy. Viewers of the choreography are enhanced by an infinite tapestry of mobile screens and synchronized visuals

Contemplate

The Womb

We create a cozy space to be shared by a number of people. The space lives, like a womb or a cocoon, soothing people and guiding their senses into a meditative state.

Beams divide the space between the above and below.

The beams reflect on a central structure made of mirrors.

The more people lay down, the less the light is obstructed and brighten the central beackon.

Under the beams, spatial sound creates a layer of atmospheric ambiance.

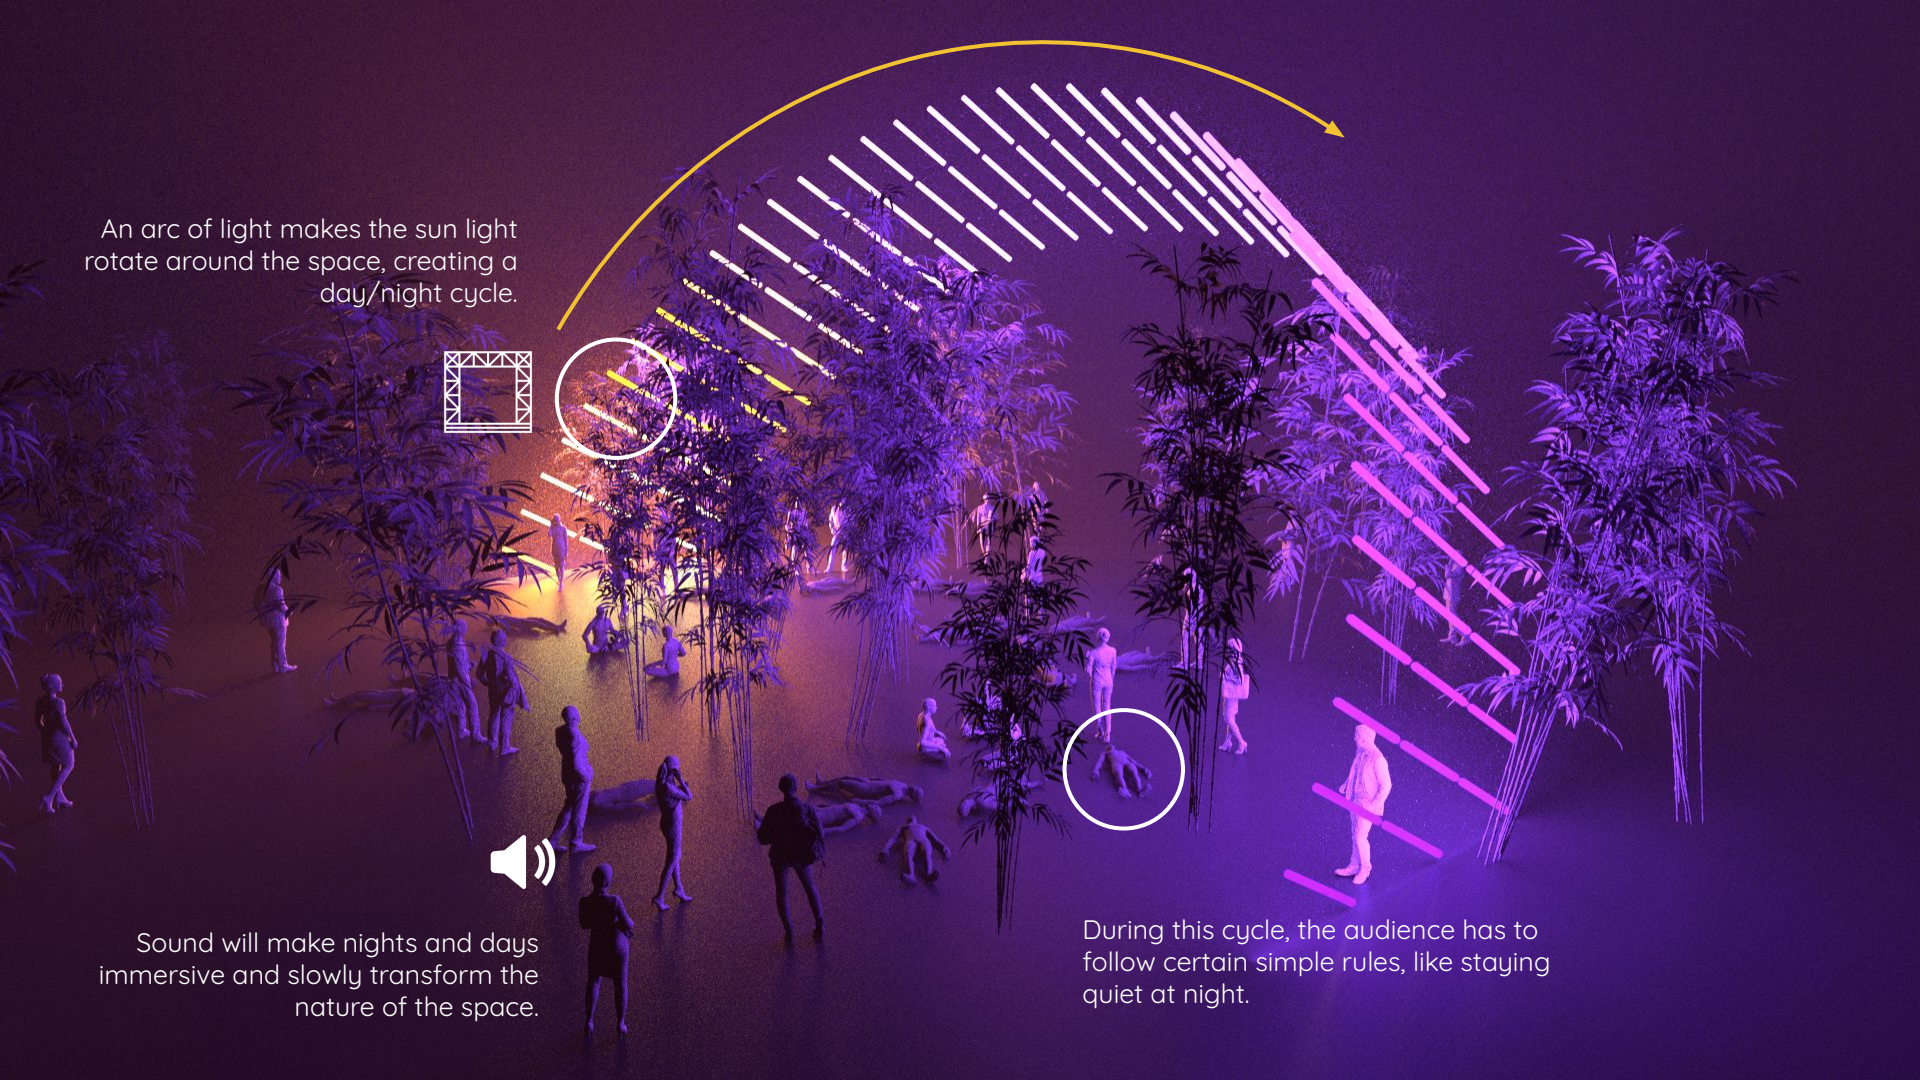

The beams slowly move and change color as if the whole space was breathing. Above you patterns of smoke and light as well as a soothing sound of a strong and slow beating heart for example will make you feel like in a bath of meditative sound and color.

Nature

Nature Cycles

An audio visual environment following day and night cycles where people have to remain silent and still at night. It pushes the audience to slow down, follow the rhythm of nature and meditate on their “daily” discussions.

An arc of light makes the sun light rotate around the space, creating a day/night cycle.
Sound will make nights and days immersive and slowly transform the nature of the space.
During this cycle, the audience has to follow certain simple rules, like staying quiet at night.